*Chinese citizens with passports issued by the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region or by the Macau authority

All you need is:

- A valid passport expiring at least 6 months after the date of your entry to Mexico
- To complete the standard "Migration Form for Tourists, Transmigrants, Visiting Businesspersons, or Visiting Consultants", (FMTTV) which will be given to you on the airplane or at the airport — an example is available here (link to example).
- You need to present the completed form and your passport to the immigration authorities at the airport of entry into Mexico.

Transit Visas

*Please remember to check the requirements of the countries where you are in transit on your way to Mexico.

Nationals of countries not listed above require a Visa to enter Mexico

If you are a citizen from a country which does require a visa to enter Mexico please follow the steps below:

Contact your closest Mexican consulate/embassy (list is available here (Link to addresses directory)) and present:

- Your Passport
- Your Letter of Invitation
- The visa fee
- A completed visa application form — Download the form in Spanish (Link to form in Spanish) English (Link to form in English) or French (Link to form in French) —
- Please note that if you apply for a visa in China or Russia you will also need to provide a photo (in full color and your passport) and they will also take the fingerprints of your two index fingers.
- The citizens of Belize, Jamaica, El Salvador and Malaysia do not need visa, but they must go to some Mexican consulate to obtain the migratory form.

Transit Visas

*Please remember to check the requirements of the countries where you are in transit on your way to Mexico.

No Mexican Representation in your Country

If there is no Mexican consulate or embassy that can issue a visa in your country you will need to apply, in person, either at a consulate or embassy in a neighboring country or in another country on your way to Mexico.

You should expect to complete the visa process at a Mexican embassy or consulate in one day; depending on the size of the embassy or consulate and also depending on the number of applications they can process per day, your visa process may extend up to two days.

This information needs to be taken into consideration when planning your stay at the country selected at your convenience, to apply for your visa at a Mexican embassy or consulate.

The full list is available hereunder
